BTS First Concert Experience

So I asked in one of my polls what you would like to see next and the winner was…
A blog about my experience at the BTS Concert in the Wembley Stadium!

I'm a new ARMY, first heard of BTS in 2017 but started to stan them this year. And I'd like to share my experience of my very first BTS concert with you. Before I start dragging you in a maybe emotional rollercoaster I would like you to know that this is my first time writing a blog. It probably got longer than planned. Oops.

So where to start… Well it all began when I came across some reseller offers of concert tickets for the BTS concert in Paris and London. I had seen before that their concerts were all sold out and so I didn't even dare to hope to see them live this year. But seeing those tickets I started thinking or rather daydreaming. Out of curiosity I decided to look up some hotels for the weekend in London. You can probably imagine the rest...

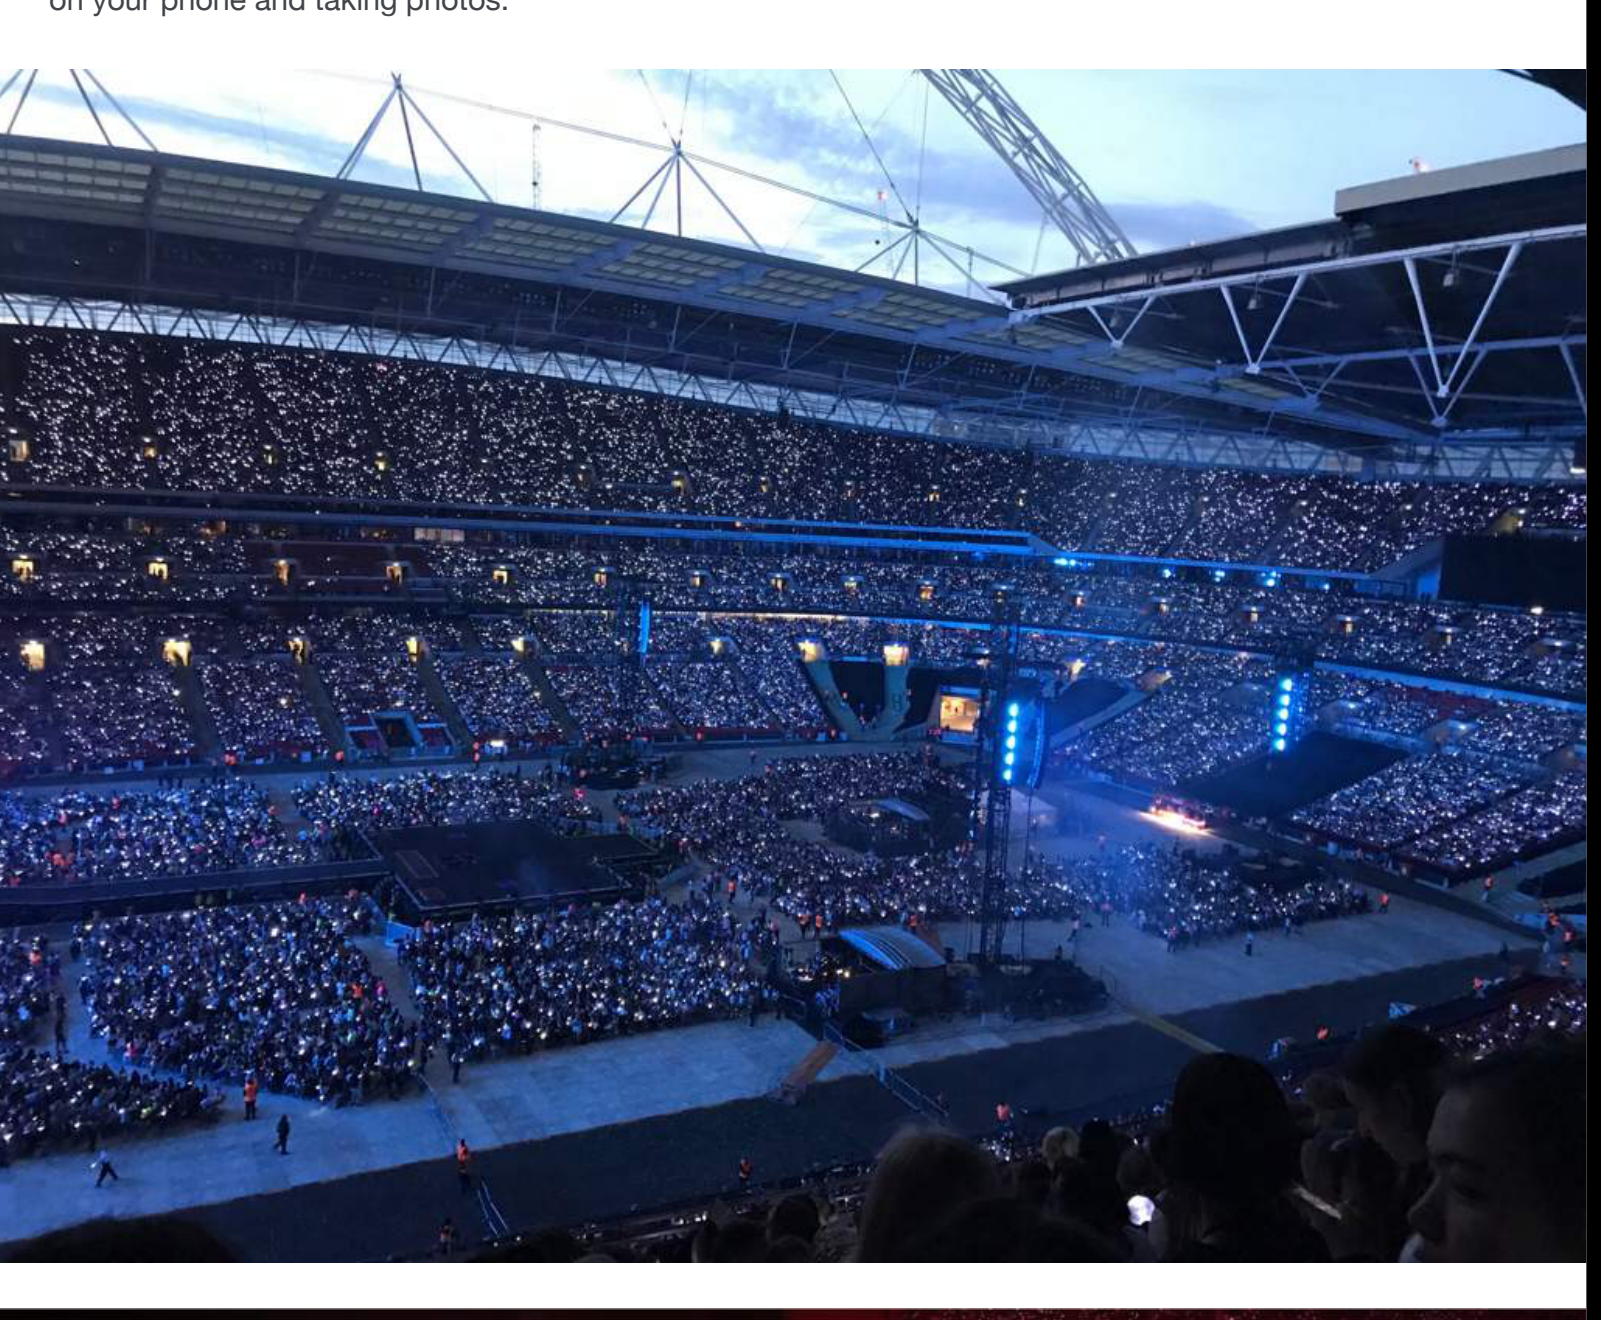
ѕαтυяday 01.ɟυиє 2019 (1ѕт ¢σи¢єят ∂αу)
My first trip this day led me to the Wembley Stadium Area and the Main Merchandise booth.
As soon as I arrived and saw the huge banners they decorated the way to the Stadium with I was speechless. It was huge! The area itself, the Stadium, the way to get there a long straight passage, filled with so many people and I reminded myself to not be nervous. We were all here for the same reason. People took photos, lined up at the Express Booths to get their ARMY Bombs, some even danced BTS choreographies or started a fanchant. One ARMY gave out small papers with a fanchant, which I forgot about in the concert. Sorry. ^^'

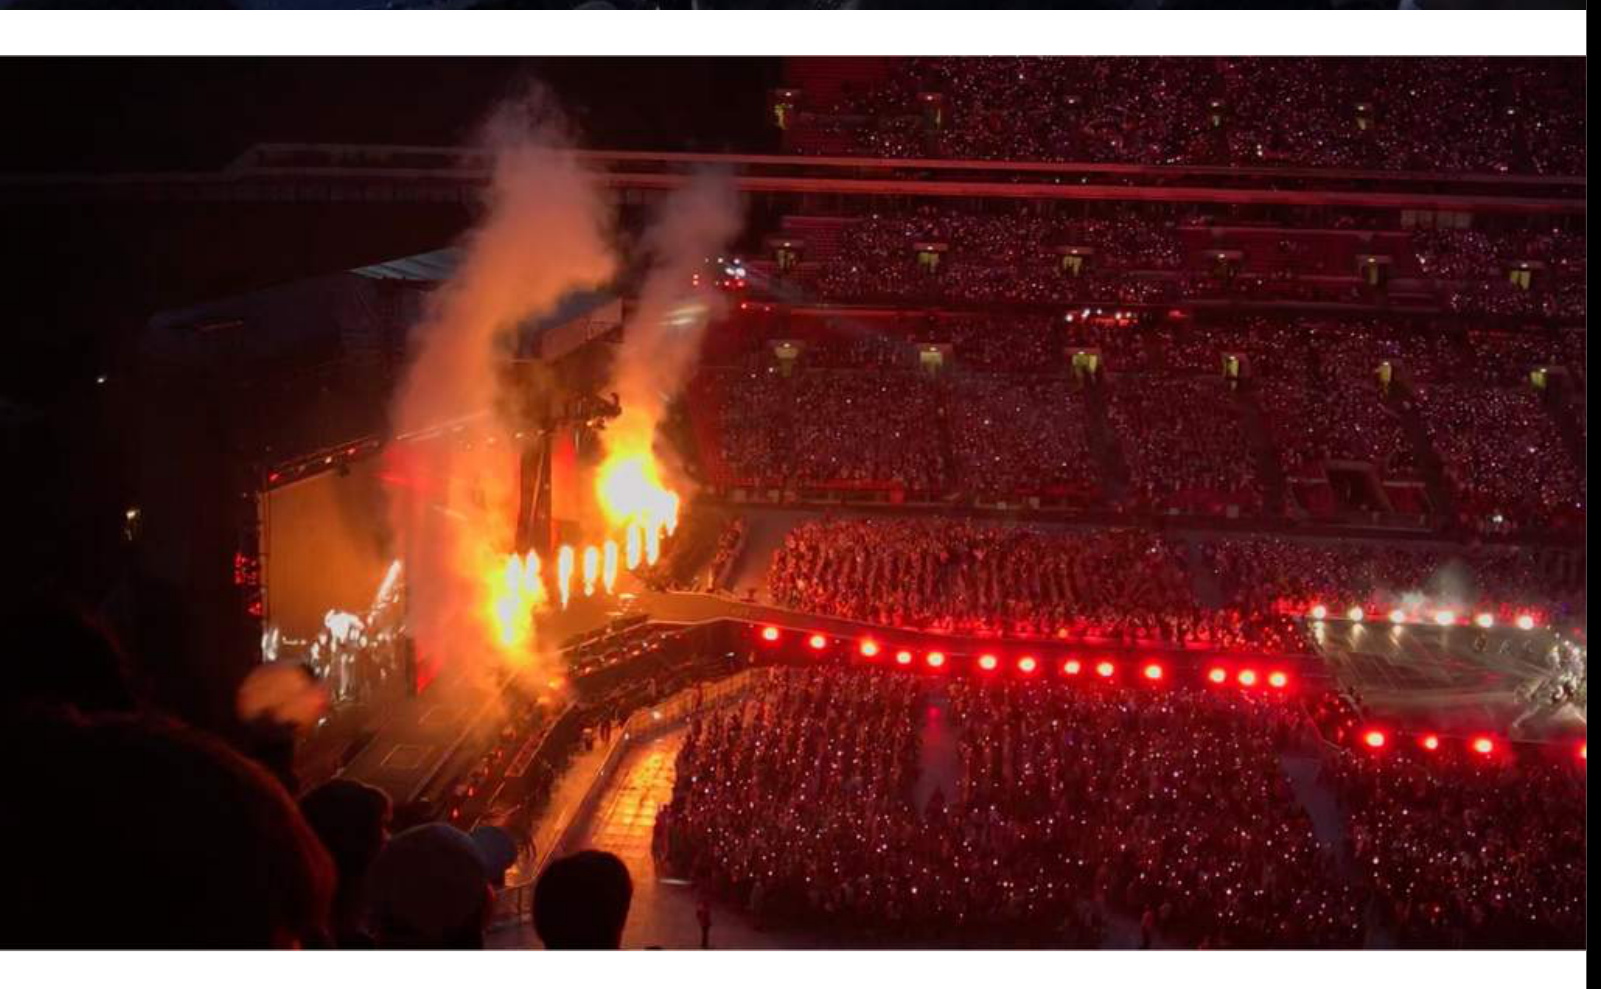
I found the Main Merchandise Booth and lined up. We were handed a paper with pictures of the merch they sold and the possibility to mark what you want, but were told that all of the merchandise like Premium Photos, Mini Flags and so on were sold out. It was around 1 PM at this point.
I decided to stay in line and met two fellow ARMYs who stood in line before me. We chatted and enjoyed the waiting time together until it was our time to order. I handed the staff member my paper and she tried her best to get what I marked. As I promised to try and get merchandise for other ARMYs as well who couldn't go to a concert, I also marked what they wanted. When the staff woman brought a Mini Flag (they apparently had a few left hidden somewhere and just found them a few minutes before I handed over my paper) with the words "I found one" and put it next to the ARMY Bomb and the Shirt, I assumed she meant either the Jungkook or J-Hope Mini Flag, so I thanked her, paid and left, totally forgetting to ask if they would restock for the next day.
As I made my way to the exit I took a glance inside the clear bag and picked out the Mini Flag, frowning when I saw the picture. I stared at my bias Jin, but couldn't believe my eyes, as I didn't mark his Mini Flag to buy. I was in complete denial, telling myself it must be JK and my eyes tricked me (I'm a new ARMY so I thought it was one of the bad days where I mix up JK and Jin, though I got quite good in telling them apart by that time). So I just stared at the object in my hand. After another glance I came to the conclusion that I'm not blind and can recognize my bias and the name on the back of the box stated it as well. XD I got the Jin Mini Flag.
I was super happy and barely restrained myself from jumping around in joy. I admit that I still have it packed in the plastic box as I love to look at it and remember how lucky I was that day.

In the afternoon I returned to the Wembley Stadium and since I was too early I tried my luck getting to the Merchandise Booth again to ask if they would restock.
Security stopped me and told me I can't go in there (I tried to get in through the exit, cause the entry was a couple hundred more meters to walk in the heat).
When I tried to explain a female security staff came to me telling me I wasn't allowed to use that way. She listened to me as I explained that I've been there around noon already and bought some but couldn't get the stuff I promised to someone back home which is why I wanted to ask if they would restock.
She deliberated for a moment, then told me to follow and led me through the exit inside the Merch Booth Area. Several people looked at us and specially security was about to stop me but she said "She's with me" and led me to the booth, asking for me if they would restock.
On our way back I thanked her a lot and we waved goodbye. My humble thanks and gratitude for all the security and other staff who were there to help us. You are terrific.

It took four wrong directions I was sent too on the first day before I finally found the right way to the entry which made me realize just how huge that stadium really is. I was still so early though that I was on my seat in Block 529 (the last Block on the left side) before they even started showing BTS Music Videos on the video screens.
Time flew by as behind me sat two ARMYs who were also from Germany so we chatted and enjoyed our time. Later things seemed to prepare for the start of the show when I heard ARMYs screaming loudly. Of course there were the common yells each time another MV started playing on the screen but this was different. When I looked down I felt my heart skip a beat. Behind the stage was a small free passage and the boys had slipped past the curtain that blocked the view from the backstage area behind the stage. They were standing in the small passage already dressed in their white outfits they would wear for the first song Dionysus, jumping and waving like crazy to us.
They seemed so excited and I tried to took in the moment that lasted for maybe half a minute. I could hit myself for not grabbing my phone and taking a photo! 😭

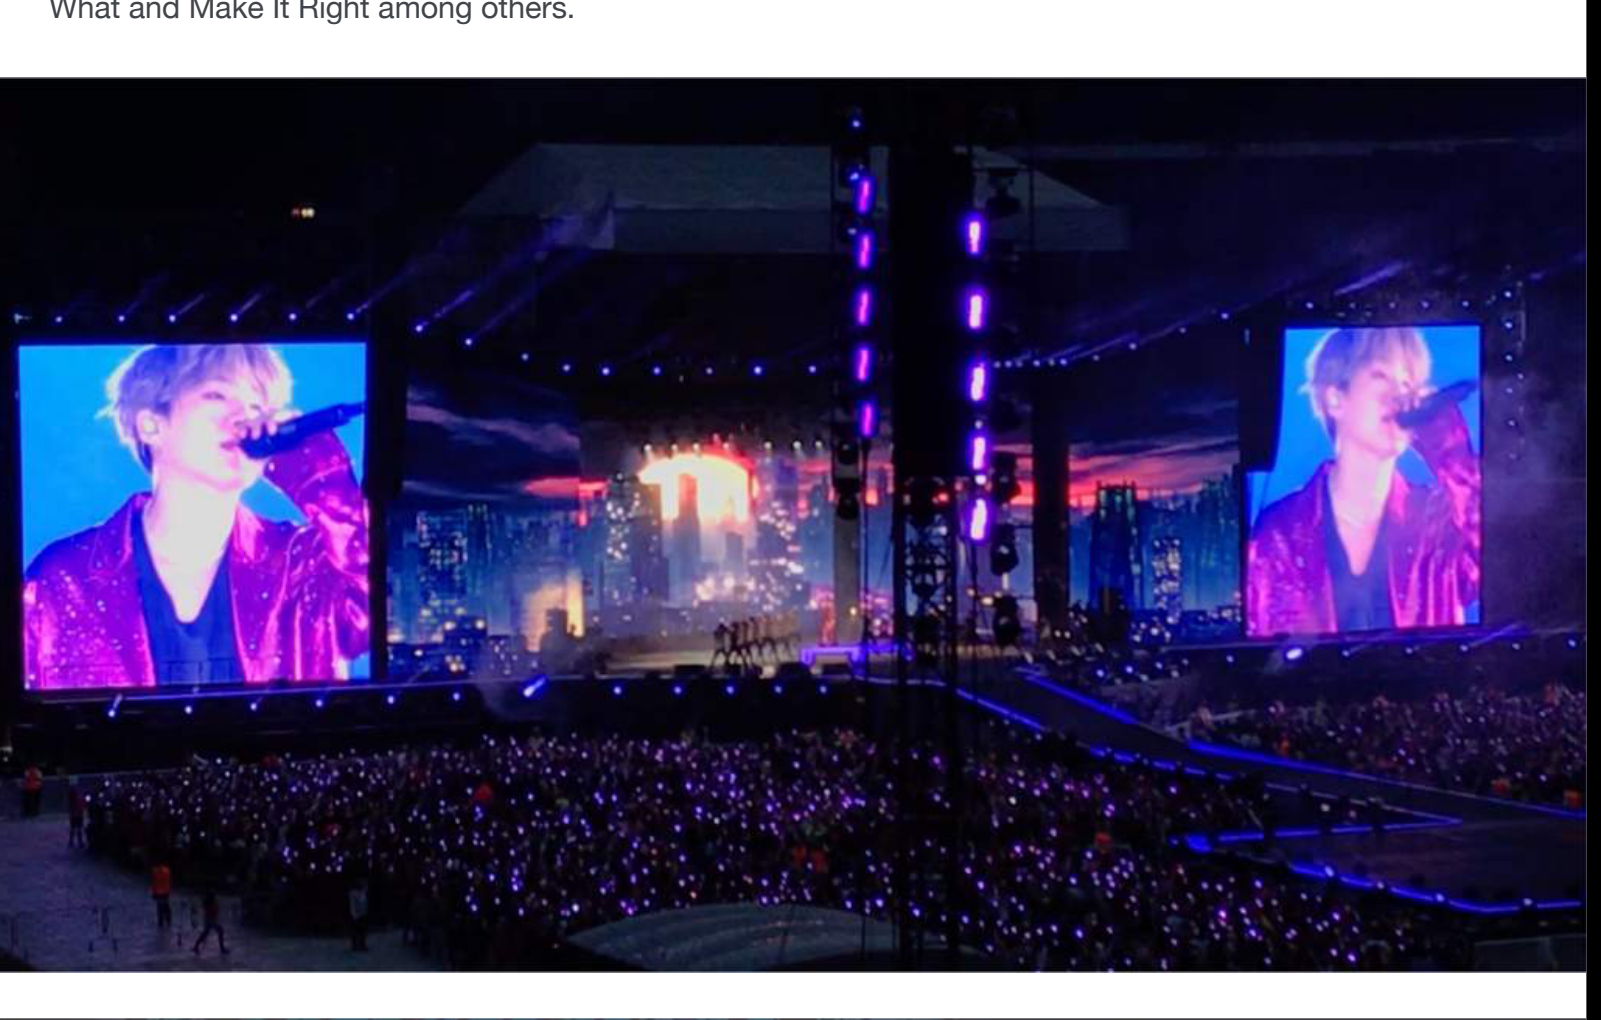
Then shortly after the concert began and I was drawn into the music, singing along, just enjoying it.
I decided to leave my ARMY Bomb at the hotel because I wanted to take photos and short clips with my phone to have some memories later. I don't regret doing that, but I wish I had done so only on one concert day and just enjoy the other one as there are so many things to see that are easily missed if you concentrate on your phone and taking photos.



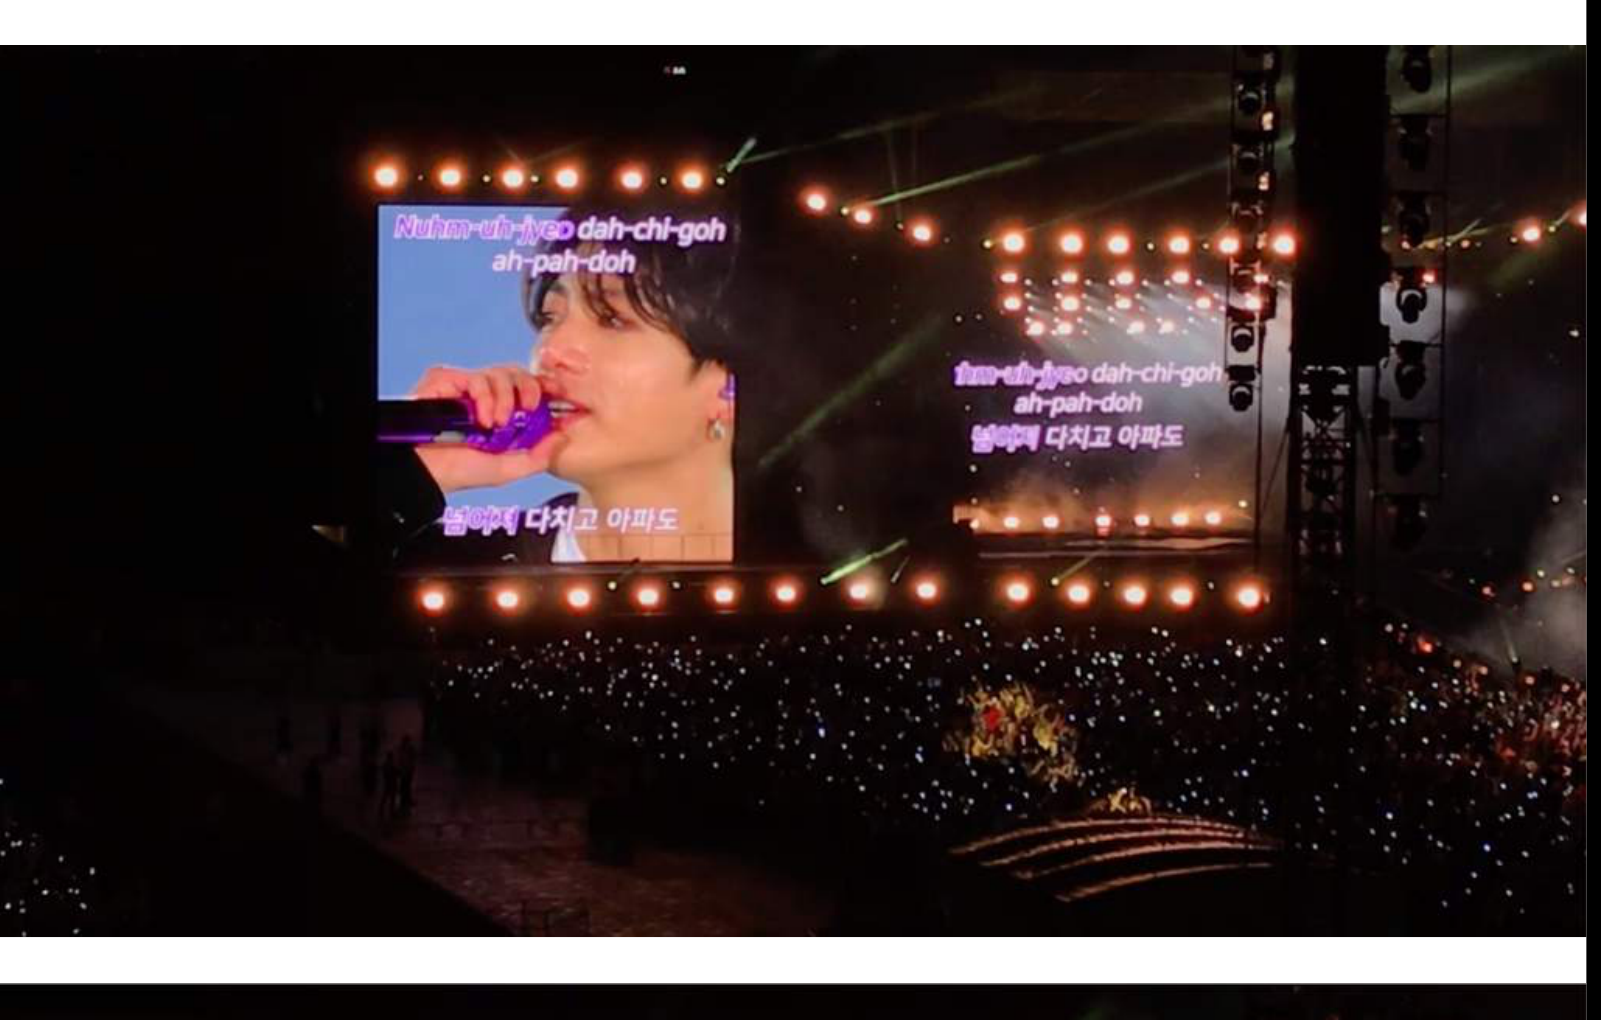


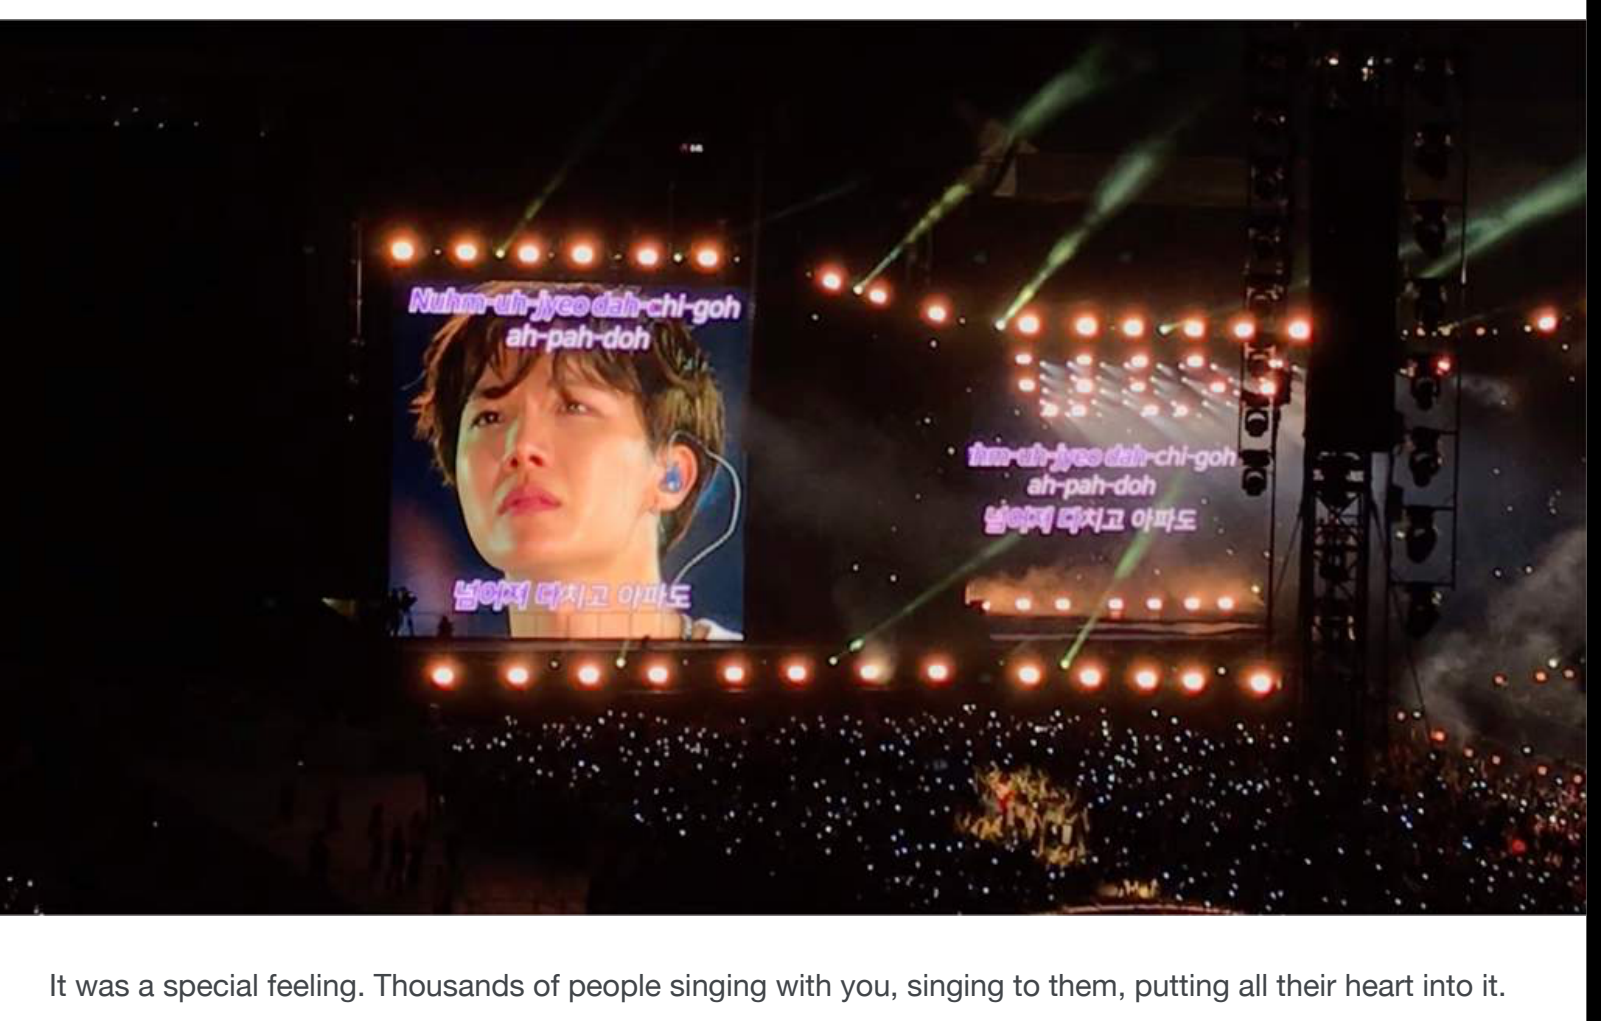
The hours passed by so fast that I couldn't believe when RM said last song for tonight.
The played Mikrokosmos which is now even more special to me and will probably always remember me of this two days.
On my way back to the train station I met another nice ARMY and we tried to find our way there together. For the second time this day I was startled by ARMYs screaming and looked up just to see the boys on the balcony of a hotel room waving down at us.
What a night! 🌙 ✨

ѕυиday 02.ɟυиє 2019 (2и∂ ¢σи¢єят ∂αу)
Needless to say I was excited about the second day. I got up early to be at the Merchandise Booth around 8 AM which I managed. I got the missing merch for my friends and the Premium Photos of RM and Jin for myself, picking up my concert ticket for this evening a bit later.
In the afternoon I returned to the area and this time found the right entry rather fast.
I could hear a bit of the soundcheck from where I was waiting but sadly outside other music was played so it got overlaid most of the time.
Again I was early and watched all the MVs playing, this time from Block 219 which gave a good overview to both stages and the stadium itself.
Then the second concert began. They played the same songs as they did on the first day which was fine by me as it was wonderful. I enjoyed the mix between their Solo songs like First Love, Seesaw, Just Dance, Epiphany, Serendipity, Euphoria, Singularity and others like Not Today, The Truth Untold, Tear, Anpanman, So What and Make It Right among others.

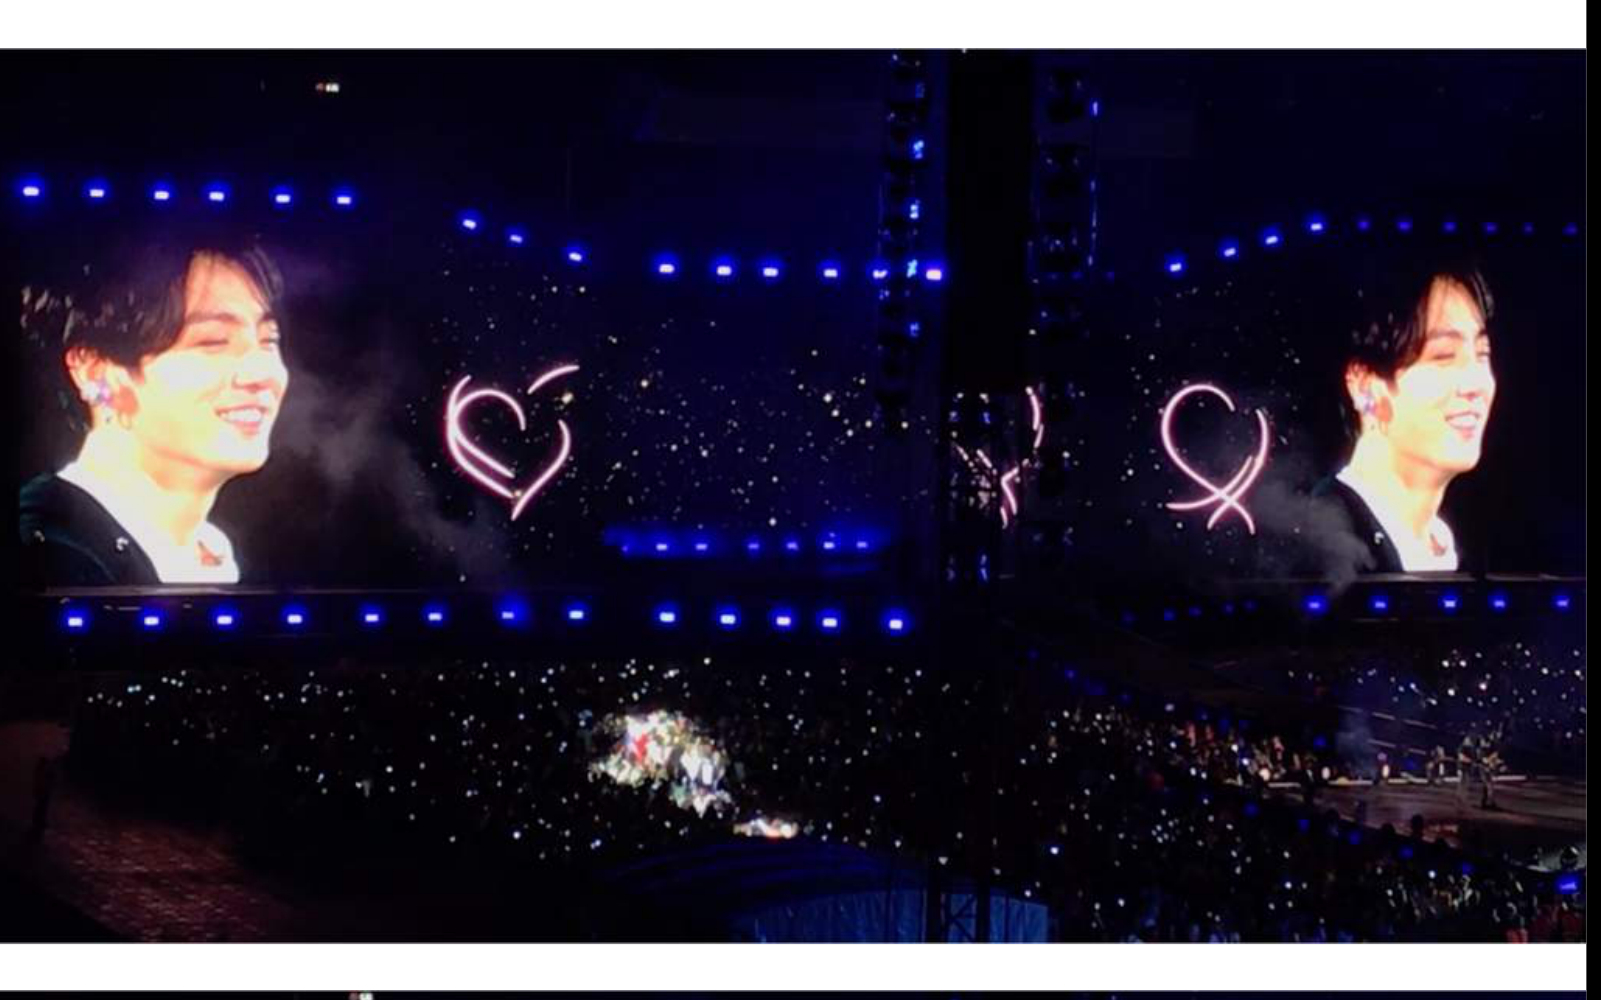


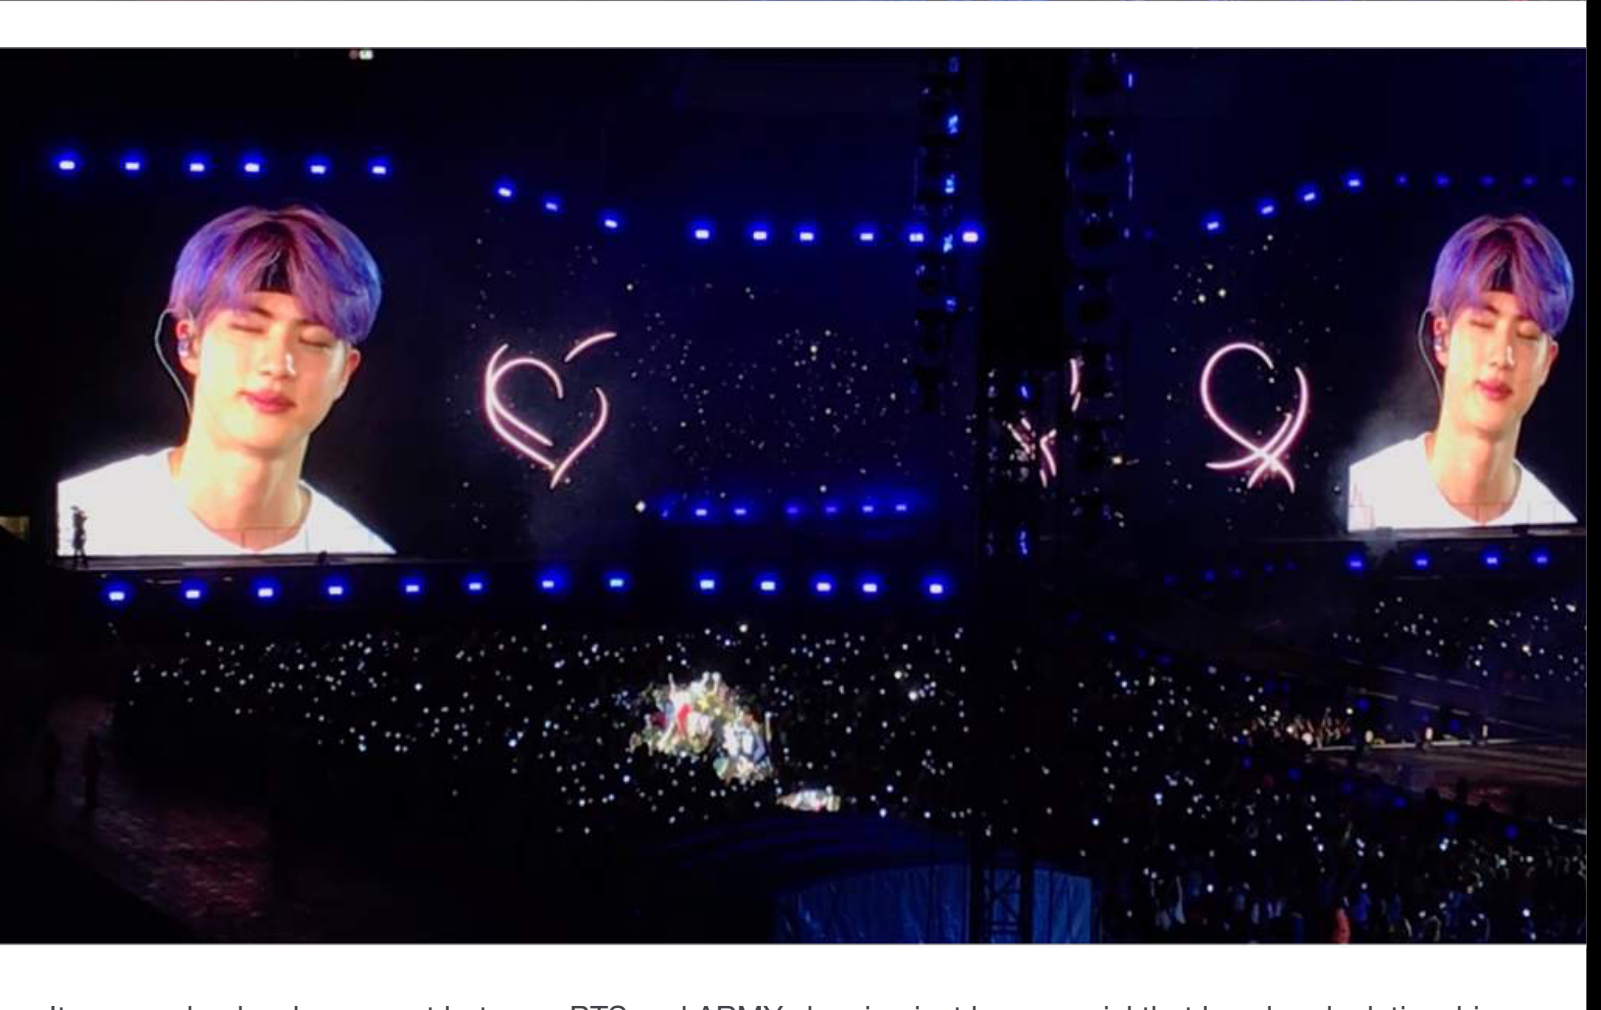
The best moment though and the most memorable one was definitely the surprise for BTS. We were noticed on the video screens that a surprise for the members was planned, asking for our help while they were backstage and oblivious to what was going on outside. We would get a second notice and then sing the chorus of Young Forever after their last speech.
So RM announced the very last song for tonight but then instead of Mikrokosmos, Young Forever started playing and ARMY sang.





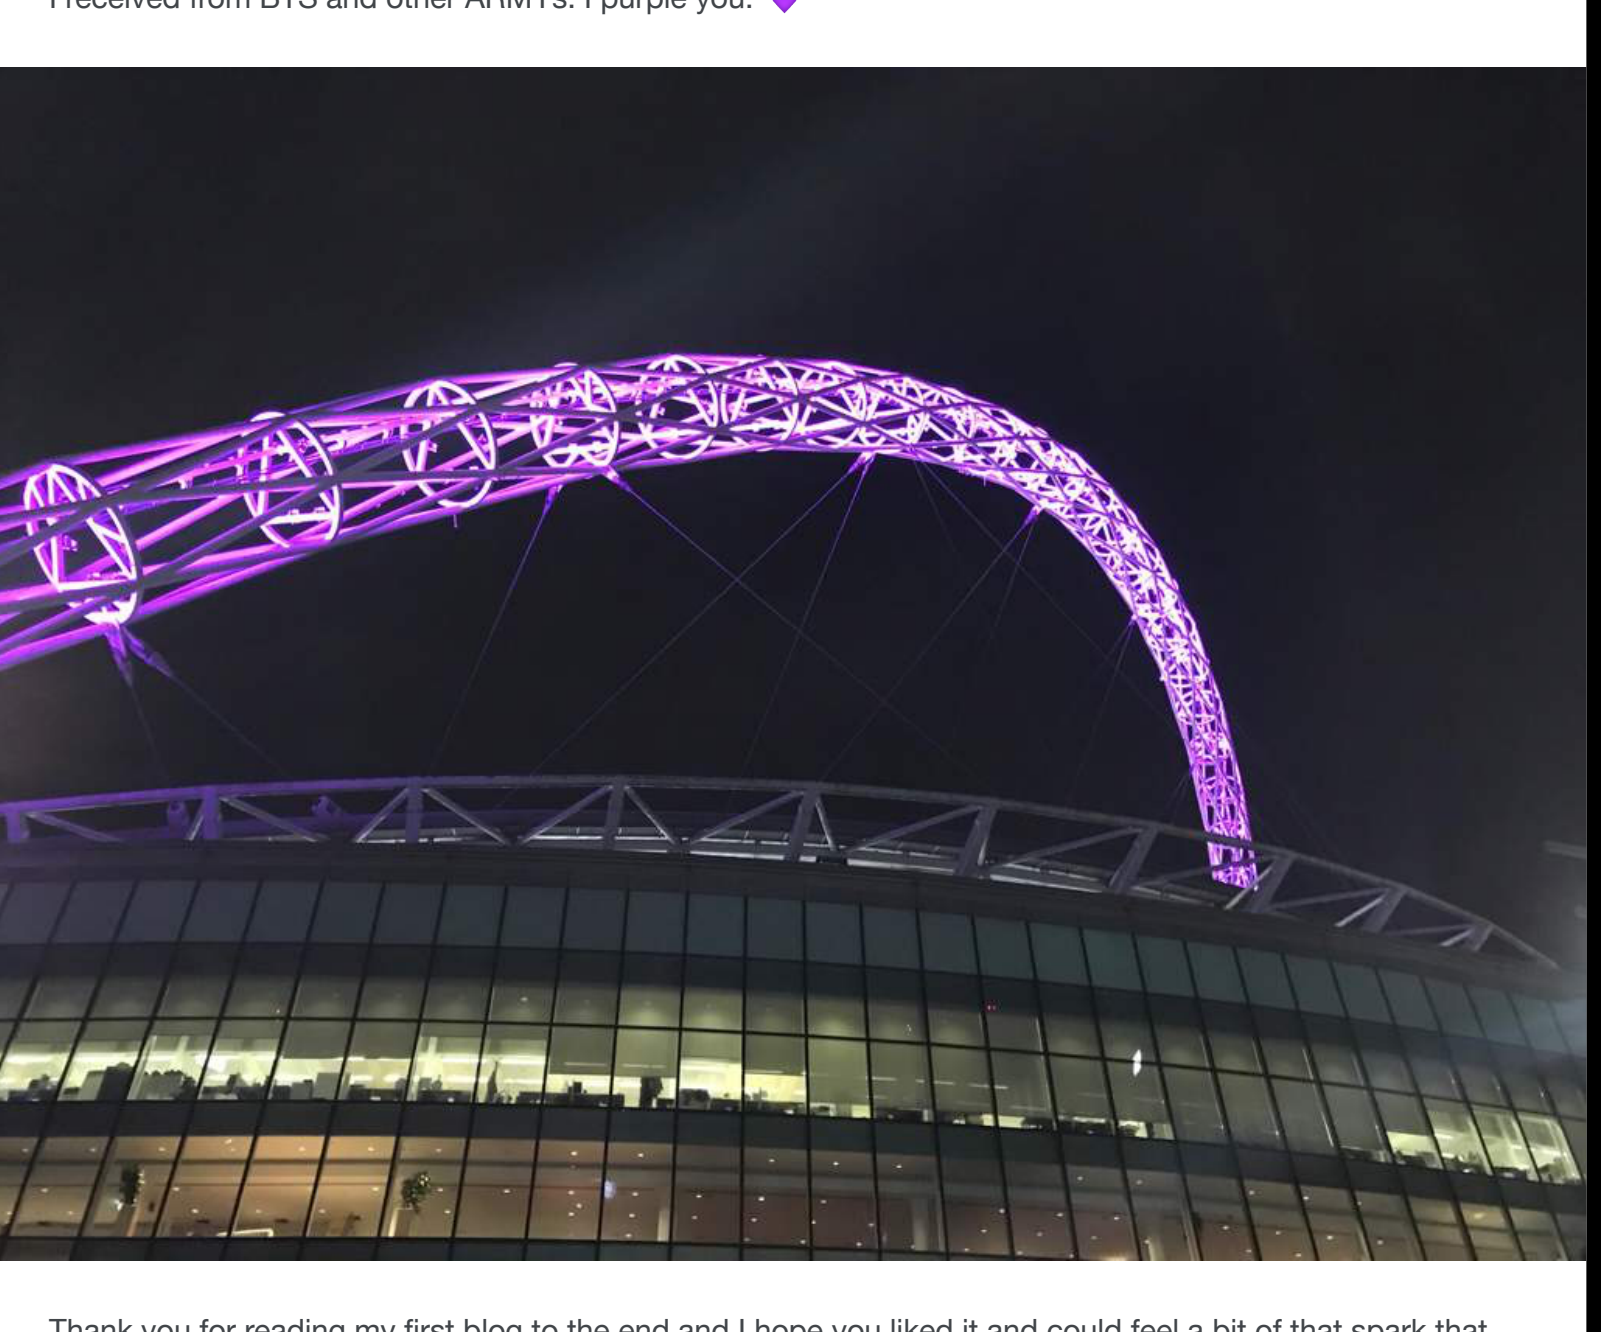
It was a special feeling. Thousands of people singing with you, singing to them, putting all their heart into it. The guys were completely taken by surprise. Jimin and Jungkook were the first to shed some tears, J-Hope soon followed. You could see how surprised and touched they were. I had some tears in my eyes too.





It was such a lovely moment between BTS and ARMY showing just how special that bond and relationship is. Proof that we cherish and support each other. This, their music, sincere thoughts they share with us and their bright personalities among many other things made me wish to go to a concert and see them live one day.

I feel grateful for getting the chance to be there, to be a part of it and to be able to give a bit of love back that I received from BTS and other ARMYs. I purple you. 💜



Thank you for reading my first blog to the end and I hope you liked it and could feel a bit of that spark that accompanied me through this weekend. ✨
